

AgriLife Extension Provides Online Auxin Training

<https://agrifetoday.tamu.edu/2020/03/23/agrilife-extension-provides-auxin-ceu-training-online/>

COVID-19 might have much of the world social distancing, but agricultural crops still must be planted, and producers still have regulations to follow. Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service is ready to help the process.

Agricultural producers needing auxin training can still turn to AgriLife Extension for their continuing education credits, CEUs, despite the COVID-19 cancellation of all in-person meetings and trainings. This auxin training qualifies for one CEU of laws and regulations. To receive a certificate of completion for the course, participants must obtain a score of 100% on the online Auxin Specific Applicator Test. The learner may retake the test as often as is necessary.

To access the Online Auxin Training, please click on this direct link.

To view the AgriLife Extension notice about Auxin and CEU trainings, please click on the link below:

<https://agrifetoday.tamu.edu/2020/03/23/agrilife-extension-provides-auxin-ceu-training-online/>

If you have any questions, please contact the Wharton County Extension Office at 979-532-3310 or cbowen@ag.tamu.edu